The Hostile Apaches Still at Large.

DEPENDENT PENSION BILLS

Proceedings of the International Typographical Union—A Medical Meeting.

Associated Press Dispatches to the Herald.

BENSON, A. T., June 10.—Last night at dark Lieutenant Johnson and Captain Lawton were pursuing a party of eighteen Indians toward the Kincon mountains. Johnson was only half an hour behind the reds, with fair prospects of coming up with them if they kept their course. But the Indians, with their usual sagacity, changed their course soon after dark and headed right across for the Catalina mountains, throwing the soldiers off the track. At daylight this morning Johnson took up the trail. This forenoon another fresh trail, which would indicate that there were about thirteen Indians in the party, was discovered going across the railroad track, five miles west of Benson, and pointing toward the Kincon mountains. This corroborates the statement that there are about thirty Apaches on the war path, as eighteen were seen near Pantano yesterday. Nothing has been heard from Johnson to-day. When closely pursued the Indians will travel seventy miles per day, and they know every trail and spring in the country, so it can be seen how difficult it is for troops unaccustomed to the country to pursue them successfully. Great curiosity exists to know who is the leader of the renegades. They appear to have a perfect knowledge of the country and are supposed to be sons of Crook's scouts.

PENSION BILLS.

An Effort to Provide for the Dependents.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 10.—Adjutant Gray, of the Grand Army of the Republic, is engaged in issuing to all posts of the country an important document of the nature of a dependent pension bill, whose passage will be urged upon the next Congress. It was drafted by the National Pension Committee of the Grand Army of the Republic, appointed by Commander-in-Chief Fairchild, under a resolution of the National Encampment.

Section 13 of the bill provides that in considering the pension of a dependent parent, the fact and cause of death, and the fact that the soldier left no widow or minor child or children, having been shown, as required by the law, it shall be necessary only to show, by competent and sufficient evidence, that such parent, or parents, are or have been without other means of support than their own manual labor or the contributions of others not legally bound for their support; provided that all pensions allowed under this section of this act shall commence from the date of the actual dependence. If a claim was filed prior to July 1, 1880, and in case applications thereafter were made the pension shall commence from the date of the filing of the application in the office or from the date of the subsequent dependence section.

Second, provides that all persons who served three months in the military or naval service of the United States, and who have been honorably discharged and are suffering from mental or physical disability not the result of their own vicious habits, shall be entitled to receive $12 per month; that persons who are now receiving pensions under existing laws, or whose claims are pending on the pension office, may receive the benefits of the act; that no person shall receive more than one pension for the same period and his rank in the service shall not be considered. Section 3 provides that if any invalid pensioner has died or shall hereafter die leaving a widow, minor, child or children under 18 years of age, or in case there be no widow or children a dependent mother or father shall be placed upon the pension rolls at the rates established by law for widows, mothers and children, without regard to the cause of death of such pensioner; that the increase of pensions for minor children shall be at the rate of $5 per month, instead of $2 per month as now provided, by law, and in case a minor child is insane, idiotic or otherwise, the helpless pension shall continue during the life of said child, or during the period of such disability. Section 4 imposes a fine of $50 or imprisonment at hard labor not exceeding two years, or both, in the discretion of the court, on any agent or attorney who, for a fee of $10, payable only upon the order of the Commissioner of pensions, by the pension agent.

THE TYPOS.

They Startle the World By Reducing Salaries.

BUFFALO, June 10.—The Executive Committee reported favorably to reduce the salary of the Chief Organizer from $1500 to $1200, and his expense account from $1000 to $800; also that the salary of the President be reduced from $900 to $600, and his expenses from $400 to $200. All of the recommendations were adopted. The committee on the nine-hour rule reported a resolution that nine hours constitute a day's work after October 1st next, in all offices except those of daily newspapers. Referred. The committee on plates recommended that subordinate unions have power to ask that the International Typographical Union executive officers endeavor to arrange with the manufacturers of plates to furnish such matter to non-union newspapers and that an executive board of five be appointed to have charge of the matter; that subordinate unions take immediate action to suppress plates now manufactured in unfair places and that union printers who, sanctioned by the executive committee, struck against plates be supported from the strike fund. After a lengthy discussion of the motion to discontinue the use of plates, it was voted down. The report was adopted except the third clause.

At the afternoon session the new officers were sworn in and immediately afterward the convention went into secret session which lasted half an hour. The committee on general laws reported on the nine-hour law as follows: Nine hours shall constitute a day's work except on daily papers and on these subordinate unions are required to change their scale of prices so that at least six hours of continuous composition piece work shall constitute a day's work. This applies to all unions having more than sixty members. Unions with fewer members may have the same advantages if so desired. Unions must give sixty days' notice to employers affected. This law is to take effect on November first. The charter of the pressmen's union No. 9, of New York, was revoked.

MEDICIN IN COUNCIL.
Important Papers on Yellow Fever, Insanity, Etc.
CHICAGO, June 10.—At the closing session of the National Medical Association to-day, Surgeon General Hamilton, of the marine service offered a resolution which was adopted, that Congress be requested to publish for distribution to the profession copies of the report to be published by Dr. Steinburg, U. S. A., on his researches into the causes of yellow fever in Mexico and Brazil. The chairman read several sections of the address. It is that of the section on medical jurisprudence, the increase of insanity in the United States was compared with the decrease in some of the European countries, and the conclusion was drawn that insane persons and those of feeble minds were shipped here from Europe. Drunkenness was touched on in its aspect as a disease, and it was held that the state should not license depots for the dissemination of physical contamination which may become hereditary. Resolutions relating to the recognition of dentists as members of the medical profession was adopted. Adjourned to meet at Cincinnati on the second Tuesday in May, 1888.

A New Way to Beat Prohibition.
AUGUSTA, (Me.), June 10.—Michael Burns, a liquor dealer, has imported a large stock of liquors from Liverpool. The United States laws protect all persons importing liquor from foreign countries from prosecution under any State prohibitory law for selling such goods in original unbroken packages, and dealers have landed in this city an advance lot of Irish whiskey and Jamaica rum. The liquor came through the Portland Custom House and arrived here by freight train. When the goods reached the depot they were loaded upon a cart and hauled through the streets, the police looking upon the operation, but attempting no interference. This is the first open selling of liquor since the prohibition law went into effect.

THE MASON'S STRIKE.
It is Still Very Far from Being Ended.

CHICAGO, June 10.—The attempt of the bricklayer's union to arbitrate differences with the employers has failed. The bosses this afternoon declined to arbitrate and the end of the lockout is apparently as far away as ever. This action of the Master Masons is it thought will cause the Master Carpenters to adhere to their nine-hour plan and the result will be that thousands of idle men will be added to those already out of work. The Builders' Central council has adopted resolutions recommending to all subordinate associations the establishment of a uniform work day, and commending the action of the Master Masons.

THE INDIAN COUNCIL.

Protest to Running Railroads Through the Indian Territory.

EFUPLA, Indian Ter., June 10.—Yesterday the International Indian Council concluded its session, after selecting Fort Gibson as the place of the next meeting. A resolution was unanimously adopted in the matter of railroad improvements in the Territory, calling the attention of Congress to the treaty of 1866, whereby but two railroads were to be allowed to pass through the Indian Territory. They protested against such legislation as appropriate Indian lands for the use of private corporations whose employees are amenable to no local laws. The council entreats the government to respect its own guarantee to protect the Indian people. They request Congress to pass an enabling act, whereby all questions affecting the rights of Indians under treaty stipulations may be referred to the courts of the United States and receive judicial settlement.

Arrival of California Wine in New York.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The arrival of California wines by the Pacific Mail steamships during May amounted to 123,000 gallons against 38,000 gallons and 13,000 gallons in the same month of 1886 and 1885. The total for the first five months of this year amounts to 370,000 gallons. In brandies the arrivals during the month were 471 gallons against 54 gallons last May. Since the first of the year a total of 4226 gallons has been received. Last year, in the same time, 4179 gallons arrived. Bonfort's wine circular says that the growth of the California wine industry has assumed such dimensions and requirements made to store the promising large crop of the future cannot fail to interest our readers. In San Francisco immense capital is being invested in storage houses, while in New York City the great value of real estate is an obstacle to the establishment of similar depots.

Gladstone Excoriates the Government.

FAMINE IN KHORASSAN.

Closure Obtains in Parliament and All of Parnell's Amendments are Voted Down.

Associated Press Dispatches to the Herald.

LONDON, June 10.—In the House of Commons this evening, Smith moved the resolution previously announced, requesting that at 10 p. m. on the 17th instant the chairman forthwith put the question on any motion, amendment or proposal touching any clause in the Crimes bill then under discussion, then on the clause itself, finally on each remaining clause. He urged that the step was forced upon the government by continued obstruction. It was absolutely necessary for the dignity and efficiency of the House that the attempt to prevent the progress of business should be defeated. Four months of the session had passed and practically nothing had been done. While the course of legislation had been stopped, the Government had desired that due consideration should be given to the rights of the minority and respect shown for the traditions of liberty and freedom which attached to the constitution of the country. [Prolonged Parnellite laughter.] But it was undoubtedly the duty of the government, in circumstances without a parallel in the history of Parliament, to call upon him to take measures to prevent the minority from setting at defiance the controlling power of the majority. It was impossible for the government, representing the majority, to yield to the obstruction of the minority. If the government was to be displaced by an adverse vote, then it would be bound to appeal to the country, but while sustained by a majority of the House, they must carry on the business of the country. The debates over the Crimes bill have become a travesty, bringing ridicule, disgrace and contempt on Parliament. He appealed to the House to support the Government in trying to restore order in its proceedings. [Cheers.]

Gladstone said that a longer notice should have been given this important motion. The present state of business in Parliament had caused intense dissatisfaction throughout the country; but that position had been brought about by the Government themselves. [Hear, hear.] They had been pursuing the false and futile policy of coercion without the justification pleaded on a former occasion. They disregarded all the usages and traditions of Parliament in the conduct of a measure which they had under the name of the Crimes bill introduced—a measure directed against a combination apart from crime. [Hear, hear.] They would suggest to the government that a rational mode to expedite the bill would be to make it temporary, instead of permanent, and strike out all provisions touching combinations apart from crime, assuring the Irish tenants of the same protection in respect to their line of strikes as have been accorded in labor strikes. [Cheers and cries of "No!"] If the government rejected that remedy and had no other to propose, the effective character of the bill would be retained in full force. He did not wish to create difficulty by offering opposition which he knew to be ineffectual. He would therefore content himself with protesting against this government measure, which he believed would be an appendix to the coercion bill, providing for the trial of persons charged with grave offences by a commission of judges, will be immediately introduced in Parliament and pushed through at the same time as the coercion bill.

Parnell said he could not understand the fatuity of the government rushing blindly along a road which they had already seen would lead to the greatest disorder in Ireland. The government's speakers harped on the theme of "disfranchisement." As a matter of fact the Irish tenants had not lifted one voice against any measure, except the coercion bill, which they were bound to resist to the utmost. He concluded by moving an amendment that the House do decide to reject the resolution limiting the freedom of debate and assailing the rights of the minority.

Harcourt warned the government that their proposal might be used by a future government as a precedent for carrying the Home Rule bill in a forthright manner and that other measures might be forced through in the same way.

Geschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said that Parliament and the country had enough of this unlimited discussion and it was necessary to put an end to it. Several Parnellites continued their discussion. Smith moved closure, which was carried by a vote of 281 to 167. Parnell's amendment was rejected by a vote of 301 to 181. There is a chance now of discussing the original motion.

After further discussion Smith's complete motion was carried under closure, 245 to 93, amid cheers and counter-cheers. Smith then proposed to postpone the further discussion of the bill in the committee.

Healy asked that the discussion be proceeded with on Saturday, but Smith declined.

Conybeare supporting Healy, was commenting on the humorous talk of Smith when the latter appealed to the Chair. The Chair said: "I must say that the whole tone of this debate has been a disgrace to the House."

Conybeare was about to continue, when Smith moved closure. Carried; 202 to 73.

[Cries of "shame," "disgraceful," etc.]

The motion to postpone the discussion in the committee until Monday was carried; 203 to 72. Smith moved to adjourn. Healy objected. [Cheers], and a voice: "He will have his holiday," greeted the final application of closure.

The motion to adjourn was carried; 203 to 71.

BODYKE.

Spirited Resistance to Forcible Eviction in Ireland.

DUBLIN, June 10.—The evictions at Bodyke were resumed to-day, and there was a repetition of the excitement and scenes which attended the numerous attempts to evict the tenants. The eviction sheriff and his bodyguards were stubbornly resisted at the house of a tenant named O'Halloran. The bill near the house was covered with an excited mob who cheered the defenders of the premises, and urged them to hold out. O'Halloran and his party had dug a trench around the house and barricaded the lower rooms, while the upper portion of the house was occupied by men, including two who had returned from America, and some women. The bailiffs made an attack on the wall of the house with crow bars, but were received with scolding water and fled. The inspector of police, with drawn sword, then mounted a ladder placed against the side of the house, but was beaten down. A constable with rifle and fixed bayonet then mounted the ladder, but his head was battered by the defenders. Several gashes were inflicted upon him, and he retired. Another constable also attempted to climb the ladder, but failed. A second ladder was then produced and several constables mounted it, but were beaten down. Cox essayed to climb up the ladder to speak to the inmates of the house, but the police prevented him from doing so. Finally a constable entered with rifle and fixed bayonet, but the rifle was wrested from him and his safety was imperiled. When Father Hannan entered and commanded a cessation of hostilities, the inmates were arrested and the work of eviction carried out.

Convention of England with Egypt.

LONDON, June 10.—In the House of Lords to-day the Marquis of Salisbury presented the Egyptian convention. England is to evacuate Egypt in three years. The right to appoint English officers to command the native army comes at the end of five years. England retains the right to send troops to Egypt in the event of external or internal disorder. The convention is not to be valid unless ratified by the powers. The May report of the Alexandria states the condition of the Egyptian crop to be favorable. The plan is strong; the area under cultivation is the same as in 1886.

Want a Riot Act.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 10.—Senator Girard, who represents St. Boniface, Manitoba, received a letter from a friend, Mr. Arnyot, asking that he introduce a bill making it a misdemeanor for more than three persons to assemble in the vicinity of any dock or vessel for the purpose of violence or intimidation. Mr. Kolbach said the Chinese had done more to develop British Columbia than the whites.

TOURNAMENT OF FIRE LADDIES

A Successful Test of Mercury as a Destructant of the Phylloxera.

Associated Press Dispatches to the Herald.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—At a meeting of the State Board of Fish Commissioners to-day, J. W. Willage, chief of patrol, who made a recent visit to Monterey bay, reported that the catching, in fact the destruction of small fish in plain violation of the law, is appalling. More than 150 Chinese are camped there and they are using nets as small as can be made. A minnow an inch in length could not squeeze through the netted obstruction. They fish with hooks and lines two miles in length, baited and hooked with protruding sharply snatched wire, in the line of fish travel, to catch everything coming in and going out of the bay. Forty boats are sailing with small nets and dragging patrol lines. There is a Chinese colony ashore shipping fish as a commercial product for shipment to Asia.</

BOARD OF TRADE.

Reports on the Interstate Commerce Law.
Some weeks ago the Board of Trade appointed a committee on the new Interstate Commerce law. The following reports were sent into the Board:

MAJORITY REPORT.

Your Committee on Transportation, to which has been referred the Interstate Commerce law as affecting the business of Southern California, beg leave to submit the following report:

We believe it to be in the province and duty of all institutions, as Boards of Trade and other similarly constituted bodies, not only to express their views at all times as to existing laws in any way affecting the business interests of the country, but also to criticize, when necessary, the spirit in which such laws were created.

The will of the people is with us in the court of last resort, and this will should be voted by the representative bodies of its business men, demanding for themselves the position of judges as to the wisdom of its laws and exercising the power of enforcing its decrees on the legislative bodies, either State or National. We believe "eternal vigilance" is the price of business, as well as political liberty, and we believe if our vigilance men be true to themselves and to the people, they will be able to protect the rights of the people in the face of the power of the State and National legislatures.

The genius of our government is founded on the only true principle of absolute non-interference with the people in the conduct and management of their affairs, and we outgrow that principle when we go beyond providing protection for the weak, control of the strong, and just punishment for the vicious or those who have no respect for either.

The genius of our government is irreconcilably opposed to all paternalism, however narrow or disguised, either by State or Nation, but was conceived in the truth that the people were the best governed that were the least governed. We believe the Interstate Commerce law is a step in the direction of paternalism, and we believe it is a step in the direction of the worst of all governments, that of the State or Nation.

We believe the Interstate Commerce law is a step in the direction of the worst of all governments, that of the State or Nation.

AFTER MANY DAYS.

A Robber Identified for Crimes of Five Years Ago.

A few days ago Deputy Sheriff Russell went to the Azusa and brought in a man named Asedo, whom, it was suspected, had been concerned in a shooting scrape about five years ago. Yesterday morning it was ascertained that Asedo is a man who has been long wanted for crimes committed about five years ago, and for which his partner, Macedonia, is now serving a term in San Quentin. It appears that Asedo and Macedonia were two horses at the Azusa and then rode away. Deputy Sheriff Malone followed the men and had a hard chase. They went to Newhall, where they stole another horse, belonging to Steamboat Miller, and pushed on to Clewega, where they forced a storekeeper to deliver $300 to them. They then rode through San Bernardino county and left one of the horses behind, as it was hindering their movements. They finally returned to the Azusa, where Malone followed them but could not locate them. He suspected, however, that they would attempt to rob a grocery store there and warned the proprietor, who employed Sam Hickman to watch for him. Hickman supplied himself with a shotgun and one night the two men rode up, and ordered the men to surrender. They refused and Asedo drew a revolver and fired at Hickman, the bullet passing very near his head. Hickman then shot Asedo with the shotgun, wounding him in the arm and side, and causing the wounds which have been mentioned before. Asedo whipped up his horse and escaped, but Macedonia was less fortunate, for Hickman shot at him, the shot taking effect about his neck and bringing him to the ground. Asedo went to Sonora, Mexico, where he remained until he evidently thought he had been forgotten, and then he returned to Azusa. He will have to stand trial on three charges of robbery in this county and one in Ventura county. He will also be tried for shooting at Hickman.

Why the New Railway.

There is much anxious curiosity to find out who is to build the new railway from Bullion City through Nevada to Los Angeles. The necessity of this road was evident five years ago in order to get cheap coal, and $3,000,000 was pledged by connecting roads East to help it along, but the rapid building of the A. & P., which was thought would open to the West a great coal supply, and all that was necessary retarded it. But the road has been completed and has brought much coal, but business has so increased that more coal than the present supply is needed and another source of supply must be found. The prospect of getting coal from foreign countries is growing small by degrees and beautifully less. The fact is that with a diminished wheat crop in this State and an increased home consumption there will be little wheat to export so but few vessels can be obtained to load in Europe with coal unless they can be loaded homeward with grain. Sailing in ballast is not profitable in these flush times.

The new road can be extended to the A. & P. R. R. in this state, from its present terminus at Bullion City, Nev., by grading a road 35 miles only. This is but a short job for the great railway companies whose offices shudder at the prospect of loss in coal. The increased price of coal in twelve months from date to the overland roads, and to the manufacturers in California would build this branch in two years. The road is a necessity and will be built. The matter is in able hands and will be pushed forward at an early day.

MR. EDITOR—Supposing that your readers will be interested in hearing from this place occasionally, I will endeavor to supply the demand. There have been so many new places started in Southern California of late that it might be well for me to first tell just where our beautiful town is located, etc. Do you know the place of "Old Baldy," and on the new Santa Fe railroad about one and a half miles east of the celebrated Euclid avenue of Ontario. Being several miles north, it is of course much higher up the graceful slope of the foothills, under the mountains, and overlooks the entire valley in all directions. The view from any portion of this town is superb and grand beyond description, your readers must come and see it for themselves. Suffice it for the present to say that the eye takes in the whole of the rich and fertile valley from Pomona and Kinston, over the China tract to Riverside, San Bernardino and Colton. This town is differently planned from that of any other town in Southern California. It is a townsite is a tract of 160 acres and running at right angles through the center are the two main avenues, which are 100 feet wide. In the center of the town is a large park containing five fountains, one large in the center and four at each of the four corners. The park is artistically laid out and fronts on all sides are the business lots for stores, hotels, etc. Large forces of men are busy in all directions building stores, hotels, etc. The town is in many respects one of the most popular and prosperous among the foothill towns. We are young and small as yet, but keep your eye on us, Mr. Editor, and watch our growth.

Catholic Church Services.

On to-morrow morning there will be a solemn high mass with the exposition of the blessed sacrament at the old Catholic Church of Our Lady of the Angels, opposite La Plaza. During the high mass there will be a sermon in English and in Spanish by Rev. Father Pedro Verdader. In the afternoon solemn vespers will be celebrated at 3 o'clock and the procession around the parish garden of the blessed sacrament. After the service the benediction. Rev. Mr. Coart will deliver an Italian lecture on the glories and triumphs of the Catholic Church to all the Italians living in and near Los Angeles. A great number of the Italians are expected to attend to listen to the eloquent discourse.

DAILY HERALD. GRADUATION GOWNS.

How to Dress on Commencement Day.

YOUNG LADIES, ATTENTION.

There is no excuse for a Girl Graduate Looking Other Than Lovely.

The Delineator, a fashion magazine published in New York, in its issue of May, gives descriptions of several lovely costumes suitable for young lady graduates. As it is a couple of weeks until the commencement exercises of the different schools take place in Los Angeles THE HERALD reproduces the following article from the Delineator:

"The young graduate is certainly not so bright as one would suppose unless she takes an active interest in her gowns, and especially in the gown she is to wear on commencement day. Of course, she will choose white, and most likely the fabric will be wool goods, for the fact that a fine laundress is almost as rare as the philosopher's stone makes the white cotton gown a source of anxiety. To be sure, a careful person may wear one entire season without washing, keeping it fresh by a series of pressings; but this is an exceptional case. White cotton gowns are dainty and cool-looking, but one should be well assured that they can be kept so before spending time and money in arranging one for that momentous time—graduation day. Fine plain and figured muslins and nylons are in vogue for white costumes, plain muslin with embroidery garniture being greatly liked.

A pretty effect is produced by alternating blocks of thick and thin muslin, but while this pattern is liked for an ordinary costume it is not just what is wanted at this time. A toilet of fine muslin, to be worn by a brown-haired maiden learned in Greek, as well as dressmaking, indicates by the manner in which it is made that it will never visit the laundry. The short skirt has a very bouffant drapery in the back, falling in folds from under the puffs in long, straight lines. At one side is a panel-like drapery that falls in straight folds down the front, and is raised prettily at its back edge. Two draperies of embroidered flouncing are arranged one above the other on the other side and across the front, and these fall in folds that are graceful and easy in their lines. At the side each flounce is upraised a little and caught by long loops and ends of heliotrope ribbon. The bodice has a yoke and sleeve puffs of the muslin laid in plaits, and over it is worn a closely fitting peasant waist of heliotrope satin. The puffs reach below the elbows, and below them the sleeves are faced with satin overlaid with embroidery. The peasant waist arches over the hips and shapes a decided point at the back, and also at the front, where it is closed by silk lacing. The neck is finished with a high roll of embroidery held by an enameled violet pin. In making such a toilet the color of the satin will, of course, be chosen because of some special becomingness; blue, rose and Nile green are pretty, though heliotrope is frequently given preference because of its vogue.

There is a wide choice in white wool goods, but chief among them are nun-velvet, the mixture of silk and wool called Clarette cloth, crepe cloth, and many fancy effects produced by bouffant, frise or the mingling of plain or figured stuffs. A thin white wool fabric shows a stripe of crepe and one erikled or puffed; another has a tiny check defined by hair-lines of silk, while in another a plaid is outlined by silk and in each case is a silk tassel. Small frise knots are thickly spread over another specimen, while a very close weaving shows all over the surface glints of silk that look like silver. White minkie and white serge make handsome dresses, but neither can be cited as new.

A pretty costume has a skirt of wool goods showing alternating stripes of crepe cloth and fine frise. On the lower part of the front and sides is a drapery that is quite plain, but over it is laid a network of round cords to secure the frise caught that it seems part of the fabric. A short plain drapery extends from one side well across the front, where it is drawn up, and a regular hip pauiser is on the other side. The basque is of the white crepe cloth in the center, and is braided at the center of the back of the head and twisted out to form a knot such as is often seen on heads called classical. The front hair is arranged in a soft, fluffy bang and is raised well off the forehead because of its air of simplicity is made of white serge and moire. These patterns are illustrated in the April Delineator. The skirt has a simple finish of three deep tucks above a hem. The drapery is in front a much wrinkled, deep tablier that is drawn up very high on one side and not quite so high on the other, and in the back it is long, full and much looped. On the side where the tablier is deeply reversed is an elaborate ornament of moire ribbon, loops and ends and pearl pendants. The bodice of white moire is arched over the hips and pointed. The neck is cut out in V shape both back and front, and the edges are outlined with a double fold of the material, while just in front is a pointed gilet of pearl beads which conceals the closing. The sleeves reach to the elbows, and each has a long epaulette of moire ribbon and pearl beads at the top and a frill of lace and a ribbon bow at the edge. The gloves are of a light tan shade and reach far up under the sleeves. The simplicity of this gown may be questioned, but the elaborate air is gained by the decorations rather than by the method of making. And, by-the-by, a broad swath of moire ribbon is worn, the loops and ends coming out from under the bodice and resting on the bouffant serge drapery, emphasizing the difference between the wool and the silk.

For the more elaborate gown which is very pretty, not very expensive and will be of service afterwards as an evening toilette, another description is given. It is made of lace that bears close resemblance to real Valenciennes, being in fact the best imitation. The skirt is of pale blue silk and has a fine plaiting about its lower edge. The deep drapery of the lace flouncing, and is laid in plaits at the waist and falls to the edge quite plainly in the front and at one side; on the other side it is raised a little and caught with a ruche of pale blue ribbon, and then is raised again far up and held by a slantlar row of lace. A blouse of lace is on the skirt under this, so that where the drapery is raised the silk does not show in its unadorned blueness. In the back drapery the long, plaited effect is preserved at one side, while the other side is lifted gracefully. A double wing-like arrangement of the lace flouncing imparts the desirable bouffant effect over the bustle. The bodice is of silk covered with the net, a simple basque shape being chosen. On the postilion are loops of blue ribbon, and in front a vest effect is produced by loops and ends of ribbon. The coat sleeves are completed with folds of ribbon, and the tiny frill of lace about the throat is drawn to place by the narrowest possible ribbon of the blue shade. A ribbon cockade is worn in the hair, and the gloves are of a bright tan hue.

"Some suggestions," asks the maid, eager for knowledge. Well: Tan-colored undressed gloves may be worn with any toilette, and so may black stockings and black slippers or shoes. If you carry a fan let it be fresh as a Spring violet and harmonize in color and effect with your gown. Do not be induced to wear artificial flowers, no matter how well they may simulate nature. Do not allow yourself to choose a very deep creamy-white. This tone is never quite as dainty-looking as the almost pure white. Do not be over conscious. To be self-conscious is a something unknown to very young people; therefore, it is a cultivated fault. Try and forget about yourself and your gown, remembering only that the world is opening out before you and that you are making your most gracious courtesy to it.

NATURAL GAS.

An Example—How Los Angeles Can Be Illuminated.

EDITOR HERALD—I wish to call the attention of the readers of your paper to a few facts connected with the grand natural gas illumination of the town of Findlay, Ohio, on June 8th. There were thirty-one gas wells in that vicinity, which were piped into the town to aid in its illuminating at the display the other night. There were 30,000 gas jets alight and they made the place as light as day. Thirty thousand strangers were attracted to it by the beauty and brilliancy of the scene.

A short time since Findlay was struggling along, trying to eke out an existence somehow. It no more dreamed of a boom than the average citizen of Los Angeles ten years ago dreamed of the present high prices of real estate. There were a few hundred people in Findlay striving to keep a spark of Christianity alive. They had a little, old weather-beaten church, a big debt, and no minister. A young man, just from college, heard of their doleful plight, sent them word he would come for a mere nominal sum, and take charge of the forlorn hope. He was accepted. He liked the congregation, they liked him. They soon found that the new minister had the good of every man's present welfare at heart, as well as his eternal future. They also found that he had what none of them possessed—a scientific education. They were delighted to hear him express his ideas in clear, concise, common sense terms. They filled the little, old church as it never had been filled before, and began to take an interest in the church; said they would really like to raise the mortgage.

The young man, armed with God's battle ax, sharpened by science, promised to give a course of lectures if the church members would all attend, every evening during the week. It was not without a little misgiving that they all promised to attend. When men toil all day at the work shop, or plow in the field, they are not eager at night to go in a clean toilet, a mile or a half mile, or even around the corner, and spend two or three hours listening to some prosy old story that will never do them a nickel's worth of good. But they had promised, and they went.

The minister with his natural eye, made intelligent by learning, had been looking at the ground over which he had daily passed from the time of his arrival in the little village of Findlay. In a sort of inspirational way he told his hearers of hidden wealth that they had been walking over for years without knowing how easy it was to utilize it and make it their own. The sleepy, tired, discouraged men were all alert in a moment, listening with both ears as they never had listened to any of his discourses before. Next day they went out and dug as they never had before, and they were rewarded just as the man of God had told them they would be—with natural gas; and to-day your paper relates by telegraph one result of their labor—the brilliant illumination of their town with 30,000 jets, and 30,000 strangers to witness it. It is useless to say that the church mortgage was lifted when the telegram states that fifty arches spanned Main street, arranged with gas jets bearing mottoes. They have a boom in that town that will last, and there is not a town in Southern California but can be lighted as easily and with just as many gas jets and with no more expense.

Petroleum is here in abundance, but the way to utilize it and make it of value to the people is a problem yet to be solved. This difficulty has been met by a scientific invention, which by a chemical analysis will change this now almost useless commodity, crude petroleum, into a brilliant illuminating gas, carrying with it the same brilliancy and exact quantities of the natural gas. If the process could be adopted and all of our towns lighted, the great movement here in real estate would be still greater than it now is. A cheap light is one of the necessities of a civilized home of the present day.

Jones' Case.
In September last John Jones attended a ball in the Azusa, and during the night became involved in a quarrel with three negroes, one of whom, Hector McLane, received a shot in the hand. Jones claimed that he was waylaid by the negroes and that McLane sprang at him with a knife when he shot him through the hand to stop him. Jones was arrested and charged with an assault to commit murder, the trial of which charge came up before Judge Cheney yesterday. The jury will render a verdict this morning.

Sutter's Arrest.
Deputy Constable Sutter stated yesterday that the arrest of Mr. Bennett was a mistake. Some woman on Alameda street had pointed Bennett out on the street as one who had been impersonating an officer, and Sutter went up to Bennett and asked him if he was an officer. Bennett replied that he was, and Sutter arrested him. Bennett yesterday explained that he had not meant that he was a police officer or an officer of the law, but was formerly an officer in the army. On this showing being made Bennett was released from custody and was exonerated.

The Hollenbeck Block.
R. B. Young is getting up plans for two more stories on the Hollenbeck Block, which will be commenced very shortly. The cost of the same will be about $100,000.

Special Announcement.
The first advance in the price of Ivanhoe lots was made June 1st as per advertisement for several months. For various good reasons, some of the lots are left at the original prices for another month. But most of them have been advanced 20 to 30 per cent. Even at advanced prices it is the best property offered for the money anywhere around Los Angeles; and buyers should choose their lots before the next advance, which will be made in July. The sale of lots in May was larger than in any previous month, and the end of June will find most of the lots sold. All whose Ivanhoe agree that it is the best property for the least money that can be found. The water system and the dummy road will both be ready by July, and many houses will be built in the next two months. If you want a first-class large lot for a small sum of money, come at once. The Illustrated Herald.
A full supply of the ANNUAL HERALDS are now on hand. Newsletters and others should avail themselves at once to send in their orders. No better evidence of Southern California's advantages could be sent to Eastern friends.

News Notes.
The transfer of real estate yesterday amounted to $299,757.
D. E. and C. D. Miles have sold to the American Brothers $6,200 worth of property in Milnes' subdivision.
William Fennessy, a native of Queens-town, died last night and the funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon from the residence of Richard Molony, No. 35 Vine street.
James Mack, who was shot by Deputy Constable Sutter on Thursday night while escaping, was yesterday discharged and the charge of petit larceny dismissed. Mack agreeing to leave the town. Mack stated that he did not blame Sutter for shooting him.

The festival in aid of the Catholic church building fund will commence at Armory Hall this afternoon at half past 2 o'clock. The programme includes a number of illustrations by John Sherman. To-night the Cathedral choir will sing several tableaux will be presented.
Jerry Murphy, who was held to answer for assaulting Officer Rulo and resisting him in the performance of his duty, tried to obtain a release yesterday by habeas corpus before Judge O'Melveny, but after hearing the evidence and arguments Judge O'Melveny ordered him remanded to the custody of the Sheriff.
W. T. Jordan, formerly connected with the Lucas Patrol force, has become identified with McCullough and Benedict. Captain P. M. Darcy has taken charge of the detective department of the McCullough's force, and these gentlemen will continue to insure security to the business houses of Los Angeles. The city is fortunate in having so efficient a patrol.

The Oxyel Club met Monday evening last at the residence of C. Laux, Jr., 833 Fort street. The subject for the evening was "Royalty." The programme was interesting and instructive, and at its close the members and their friends enjoyed a royal time in social amusements. The next meeting will be held on Monday, June 20th at the residence of L. J. Lockhart.
Dr. J. H. Bryant, of St. Paul, Minn., who is in the city on his second visit the present year, has purchased some very fine tracts, among which are seventy acres corner of Main and Jefferson streets, called the Throop Ranch, and the last purchase is the beautiful residence of Judge Hubbell, at the head of Sixth street, the consideration being $45,000. It looks as though the doctor intended making this his residence.

On the 21st of this month will be given the annual ball of the Los Angeles hack drivers at the Arroyo Seco. This will be a pretty lively affair, as the jehus expect everybody who generally patronize backs to attend the ball. There will be three deputy constables on hand to preserve order, but it is hoped that the friends of the hack drivers will have considerable fun and render the services of the officers unnecessary.

In order to raise funds to properly represent Los Angeles at St. Louis, Mo., where the G. A. R. National Reunion will take place in September next, two entertainments will be given at the Pavilion on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, June 29th and 30th, under the general direction of G. W. Arbuckle and the following committee: Gen. E. Boston, E. M. Hamilton, L. S. Boyer, A. M. Thornton, A. H. Denker, W. J. Brown, E. P. Johnson and A. W. Barrett.

Personal Mention.
F. R. Darling, of Redlands, is in the city.

Ralph Thom, of Portland, is visiting Los Angeles.

Wendell Easton, of the Land Bureau, left yesterday for San Francisco.

Mr. J. A. Studebaker, of the Riverside Enterprise, is in the city.

Mr. W. H. Carlson, the live real estate man and ex-City Trustee of San Diego, is paying Los Angeles a visit.

Mr. Richard Garvey, who was in from his ranch near Savannah yesterday, informs us that the crops in his neighborhood are quite fair.

Mark Thall, advance agent of the Harbor Lights Company, left yesterday on a business visit to San Diego. He will return in a couple of days.

Ex-Sheriff Currier, whom we encountered on the streets yesterday, tells us that they have made splendid hay and some grain out at Spadra this year, and that the good people are contented and happy.

Captain H. Reddick, the well known rancher of Yorba, is in town on a business visit. The Captain looks hale and hearty and his fresh appearance is another tribute to the glorious climate of Los Angeles county.

Charged With Robbery.
John Lemon and James Sullivan were arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer Dillon and charged with being drunk and disorderly. Lemon, however, charged Sullivan with knocking him down and robbing him. Lemon said he had been paid off in the morning and had started out with $25. He had met Sullivan, who had relieved him of what he had left after drinking most all day. When searched at the police station, Lemon found no money, and Sullivan said at first he had none. A nickel was found in one of Sullivan's pockets and a dime in another, but in the lining of his coat was found $13, the presence of which he could not explain. Lemon will probably swear to a warrant to-day charging Sullivan with robbery.

A New Schooner.
The Kerckhoff-Cramer Mill and Lumber Company have let the contract for a No. 1 first-class steam schooner, to carry about 350,000 feet of lumber, to run entirely to San Pedro. She will be called by some local name, probably Pasadena. The keel was laid Wednesday, June 8th, and is to be finished in 100 days. She will be 120 feet long, beam, 32 feet; hold, 10 feet; draft, 13 feet. She will have compound engines of the most improved make. The contractors are Hinckley & Spiers, and the price of the schooner is nearly $50,000.

CLOSED UP.

No Fare Playing in This City Last Night.

Last night was decidedly quiet for the members of the sporting fraternity. Not a light was seen, and not a check was heard to click. The tiger sheathed his claws and withdrew to the innermost recesses of his lair. It is true that the private poker rooms did a good business, but the banks, where the humble citizen goes and lays down a short bit with the expectation of becoming wealthy, were all closed, and the dealers, lookouts, etc., are enjoying a holiday. This fall in the business of those who keep houses, wherein people may woo the fickle dame, is probably explained by the closing of Chief Skinner at the police investigation this morning, when he said that he could pull and close the gambling houses of this city without Officer Fred. Smith's assistance. The Chief went further and said that he would close up the gambling houses. This sounded like talk that was meant and people generally have an idea that Skinner says what he means. At any rate a member of the fraternity went around about 6 o'clock last evening and held a confidential conversation with other members of the fraternity and none of the games opened last night.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.

Lorenzo Minoceno Run Over by Engine No. 11.
Shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday morning engine No. 11 ran over and killed an Italian laborer named Lorenzo Minoceno at the corner of Buena Vista street and San Fernando. It appeared from the testimony given at the inquest last night that Lorenzo was in the employ of the railroad company, and was engaged at the point where he was killed in working about the track. Engine No. 11 had been taken across the bridge and turned around and was being brought back when the accident occurred. Although both the engineer and fireman were on the lookout neither saw the man but both felt a jar and when the engine was stopped the purpose of turning a switch the body was seen lying on the track. There was a curve at this place which prevented Lorenzo from being seen very readily, and there was one who saw him struck by the engine. The inquest was held by Justice Toney and the Coroner's jury returned a verdict which found that the death was accidental and exonerated the railroad employees from all blame.
